

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

STANDING ORDER RE: APPEARANCE OF COUNSEL BY TELEPHONE

SAYLOR, J.

It is a common practice of this Court to convene periodic conferences in civil and criminal cases for case management purposes. Often those conferences are quite short, on the order of ten or fifteen minutes long. For counsel to travel to the courthouse for such a short proceeding may involve undue inconvenience and expense, particularly for those traveling from out of town.

Accordingly, the Court will generally permit counsel to appear by telephone for relatively short and simple court conferences. Such telephone appearances are, however, subject to the following requirements:

1. Counsel should request permission to appear by telephone from the courtroom clerk reasonably in advance of the proceeding (that is, in time to appear in person if permission is not granted).

2. Except in rare instances, counsel should participate from a normal office setting. Counsel should avoid using cell telephones or similar devices, as reception may be poor and counsel may be difficult to hear. Under no circumstances should counsel participate from a moving automobile or where similar distractions are present, or from public areas (such as an airport, railroad station, or hotel lobby) where background noise is present.

3. During the conference, counsel should take particular care to identify themselves each time they speak, and to speak clearly for the benefit of the Court and the stenographer.

So Ordered.
